

(上接A20版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, fund names, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a company name and listing its various funds and their corresponding values.