

(上接A21版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, addresses, and financial data. The table is organized in a grid format with columns for company name, address, and other details. The text is dense and follows a standard financial reporting layout.