

(上接A23版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each containing a list of entries with their respective identifiers and details.