

(上接B9版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each containing a list of entries with their respective details.